herewith A. F. O. 1625, in duplicate, for late 2137, Bandman Wm. Maddock. This man died at Ayr Military Hospital on March 17th. Thus he was entitled to one day's pay, viz. 17th, March. His effects were disposed of by auction on March 28th, and the sum of 11/8 realized. His wife came here on March 27th, and took possession of a few private articles here. I then settled up the account with her as per receipt attached. The signature (Jas. Bell, is her son in law who came here with her and handed over the amount in my presence. Trust you will find this in order, please.

Dear Sir,-

I would be greatly obliged if you can give me any information or what procedure I should take with reference to any pension I may be entitled to through the death, while on service, of my husband, Bandsman William Maddock.

I am left with three daughters whose respective ages are 12 years, 14 years, and 18 years and one son 21 years, as I abso-utely depended on Mr. Maddock for our living, things will be indeed serious with us unless I was entitled to some assistance.

Might I take the liberty of stating that my late husband has been connected with Military service for the greater part of his life, having as a young man served 9 years in the 79th. Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, and later was instructor to various Military Volunteer Bands for over fifteen years.

I have several testimonials from his Commanding Officers, which I will be pleased to send you if required.

Hoping for the favour of a reply.

I remain,

Yours truly,

Mrs. Maddock,

"case of the late No. 2137, Bandsman W. Maddock, Royal Newfoundland Regiment, I am directed by the Minister of Pensions to acquaint you that under the Royal Warrant for Pensions, a soldier is regarded as on active service from the outbreak of war or date of his joining for service if later, and his widow is eligible for full pension if he dies of disease certified as contracted or commencing on active service, provided his death has not been caused through his own negligence or misconduct. If Bandsman Maddock has been serving in the British Army, therefore, his death during service, from Heart Failure, following Bronchitis which commenced on service, would entitle his widow to full pension."

(16)

From The Pensions Editor, News of the World, London., to The Newfoundland Office, London, dated 27/2/20.

Widow of 2137, Bdsman. W. Maddock (Dec):

"Regarding your letter addressed to the widow on the 28th January 1920, Ref. No. 252/1/P&A, in which you advised that although several applications have already been made to the Ministry of Pensions concerning her claim, no reply has yet been received.

Might I draw your attention to the fact that I had this case submitted to the Officers in/c of records as far back as July 1918, if not previous to this date. My communication was addressed to him from 94 West Regent Street, Glasgow. I can assure you that there has been a certain amount of unnecessary; perhaps I might say, avoidable delay, in having this claim settled.

The Gentleman who has the case in hand has come to London and passed to me all the correspondence to the claim.

I should appreciate it very much if you could give me an idea as to when this case might be satisfactorily concluded, as I can assure you the Widows, circumstances are not in the least too satisfactory financially.

Thanking you in anticipation."

Sir:- 2137 Bandsman Maddock.

Your letter of July 16th respecting this case has been received and note from it that "the question of enlistment of the members of the band at Winchester as been fully considered, and as regards pension and other pay and allowances, they should be treated in the same manner as other members of the Regiment."

Our Board has given this matter very careful consideration and while noting the above decision, are reluctant to finalize this case until they have laid before your Department certain aspects of the case which may possibly have been overlooked by your Department in reaching its decision and which the Board thinks should be brought out very fully so that there may be no misunderstanding in future as to the circumstances underlying this case and the award of a pension in other cases for which it may become a precedent.

The first point that the Board would call your attention to is, that this man, according to his enlistment papers, was 50 years of age, whereas the age for the enlistment, of the men in the Regiment was, so we understand, from 19 to 38, and that if this be so, he was enlisted improperly if for general service, if he was not for general service but for special service as Bandsman, we submit to your Department that it be preferable before a final decision was reached to have the opinion of the ~~legal profession~~ as to whether such an enlistment would entitle his family to a pension on account of his death.

Again we would note the fact that the disease from which he died- Bronchitis- is not certified as having been due to or aggravated by Military Service, and it will be necessary to know that it was one or other of these causes before we can finally determine a liability in this matter.

On the surface it appears as if this middle-aged Musician after having served as Bandsman for many years with various Regiments, joined the Newfoundland Regiment with those in charge at Winchester fully aware of his age, occupation, and intended employment etc., that he only served nine months and that he died from natural causes in no way attributable to Military service, (and Major Knight of the Regiment who was Medical Officer at Winchester at the time informs us that members of the Band were not subject to any strain, exposure or other circumstances which would form a hardship upon them) and in view of the fact that the Board is obliged from time to time to decline to grant pensions to the people of this country, members of whose families enlisted for general service and died on Active Service, the Board is of the opinion that the legal liability in this case should be determined upon beyond any question of doubt before a pension is awarded under the circumstances which appear to surround this case.

The above soldier enlisted in the Royal Newfoundland Regt. 24/8/16. He was admitted to Hospital suffering from Bronchitis 8/3/17, from which he died 17/5/17.

As he has not been on Active Service the Pension Regulations are not interpreted as applying to him. He leaves a widow and three daughters, whose respective ages are 12, 14, and 18 years, and one son age 21.

Mrs. Maddock states that her late husband has been in Military Service for the greater part of his life, having served 9 Years with the 79th Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, and 15 Years with the Military Volunteer Bands.

Copy of his Medical History Sheet is enclosed for reference.

Mrs. Maddock claims that she is entitled to a Pension from the Newfoundland Government.
