REPLY.

Reference Nos. _____

Dated Sep. 17th, 1924 192

(Please return ORIGINAL and retain DUPLICATE).

Referring to "Militia" telegram of the 6th March: "Permission has been received to treat War Graves Seabright Lock Pieraway headstone not required for former" and which was supplemented by "Militia" telegram of 7th March as follows - "Next-of-Kin definitely objects to removal of Private Memorial grave isolated treating in a similar manner outlined in page 13 58th Meeting I.W.G.C."

Noted, please.

A reply has been received from the Imperial War Graves Commission to the effect that "when a private memorial has been erected on a war grave in the United Kingdom the usual custom of the Commission is to leave it standing and not to erect a Commission headstone unless the Next-of-Kin desires one in addition to the existing Memorial".

Archivist.

The Resolution passed at the 58th Meeting of the I.W.G.C. and mentioned in the Militia Telegram of the 7th March apparently does not apply in this case but is meant to affect isolated graves in France and Belgium where the Next-of-Kin had purchased the sites but had not erected private memorials. The Commission undertakes to maintain such graves but are not responsible for the permanent support of the headstone. It would appear in the case of Pte. Seabright that unless a Commission headstone was erected in addition to the private memorial or the latter substituted by a Commission headstone, the responsibility of treating the grave should be borne by the Next-of-Kin.

As instructed in the Militia telegram of 6th March, a headstone has not been ordered though the Commission is in possession of the Cemetery Register form and it is presumed that the particulars of the above-named Soldier will appear in the Cemetery Register.
