Dear Sir,

Re Williams.

This woman called upon me and stated that the utmost she could pay was £1 a month. I pointed out to her the proceedings she was liable to and also that the amount she offered was very small, but that if she could obtain a satisfactory surety for the payment I would advise you to accept it. She promised to send the name and address of a surety but up to now I have not received it. I shall be glad to have your further instructions in the matter. When writing kindly let me have her address in London.

Dear Sir,

re Williams.

Following upon my conversation with you on the telephone a few days ago, I wrote to Mrs. Williams and she has to-day again called upon me.

She states that notwithstanding strenuous efforts she has been utterly unable to obtain a security for the re-payment of the money which she has been overpaid.

She has brought me to-day £1 on account, which I enclose, and of which I shall be glad to receive an acknowledgment.

She states that you can rely that her husband and herself will pay the balance every month regularly.

They are living in furnished apartments, and are really birds of passage. He has no regular work, but earns as a bandsman about £4. 15. 0. per week.

If the facts are true, it would be useless obtaining re Mrs. Williams.

Ref. 11433/17/P.A.

I have your letter, and I had, following upon your telephonic communication, written Mrs. Williams that provided she and her husband punctually paid the instalments agreed upon, the matter would not go further, but you reserved all your rights in the case of default.

Yours truly,

Alfred Docker

Dear Sir,

MRS. WILLIAMS.

With reference to your letter 15-9-19; receipt of £1.0.0. first instalment of refund due by the above named is acknowledged as Agreed over the telephone this morning, and it is considered inadvisable in view of the circumstances to make this matter the subject of a Police Court Case at present.

There would appear to be sufficient evidence of admission of liability should it be desirable and necessary to take legal proceedings at any future date. Meanwhile if you will be good enough to continue to act for this office in this matter your kind assistance will be much appreciated.

Yours faithfully:

Major,
Chief Staff Officer (London).
